Message from the Director

This is an incredibly busy period for the SDF community.

Not only are students in the thick of research and class work, but as this edition of the SDF Newsletter illustrates, there are a host of interesting conferences going on from coast to coast.

It remains my sincere hope that members of the Directorate of Public Policy will have an opportunity to attend some of these events, meet students and faculty, and to see the work of the SDF first hand.

This Newsletter also includes highlights about the SDF Selection Committee, and the new SDF Discussion Board.

All the best,

Aaron Hywarren
Director of Public Policy

Pearson Peacekeeping Centre: UN Peacekeeping Doctrine

The Pearson Peacekeeping Centre and the United Nations Department of Peacekeeping Operations will host a one and-a-half day roundtable on United Nations Peacekeeping Doctrine on 5-6 March 2007, in Ottawa.

The extant doctrine dates back to 1995. The aim of the roundtable is to replace it with a doctrine that is reflective of the changing nature of conflict and humanitarian intervention. Input from the humanitarian enterprise will provide a new dimension that will serve UN peacekeeping in the coming years. Participation of humanitarian experts will lead to a peacekeeping doctrine that is more reflective of the complex environment in which both peacekeepers and humanitarians are required to function in order to fulfill their respective mandates.
